

OBJECTIVE OF CONFERENCE

In 21st century technology reaches at its peak and materials are key pillar of technology. The construction materials industry is a major consumer of the world's resources. Enormous progress has been made towards sustainability. Still scope and opportunities for further improvements are significant. The focus of this conference is to highlight case studies and research that will show new and innovative ways of achieving sustainability of construction materials for Building/Road construction. Promising examples of innovative building material technologies that have already reached commercial scale and the drivers and barriers for further implementation will be discussed. This conference will help companies, communities, academicians and governments to meet a range of different goals.

Paper Submission

Submit your paper in the template given on the website www.mnit.ac.in. Email your paper in doc and PDF format to ncsmbrce.mnit@gmail.com.
